A KINGSCLERE entrepreneur is a finalist in the Institute of Directors (IoD) South East Director of the Year competition.

The operations director for BCMS Corporate Ltd, Steve Rebbettes, has impressed the judges with the way he has improved the family business.

The business sells privately owned companies to interested parties.

IoD regional director Roger Broad said: "Directors come to us from all over the world for help and advice on their professional development.

"Here we are saying look at these people, they excel at business leadership.

"Their skills are benefiting not only their company, but their employees, industry and community."

Mr Rebbettes is one of three finalists in the category for businesses turning over between £5 million and £25 million.

Mr Rebbettes said: "Our vision is to internationalise.

"This year we have already opened an office in New York.

"We have started to embark on a sales campaign and we are already ahead of our targets.

"We intend to open other offices in other US cities and other countries.

"We already have partners in a number of European countries and we intend to increase these also."

The winners will be announced later this month.
